EXPOSED

How Project 2025 will harm farmers:

The extreme Republican plan would drastically reduce support keeping small farms afloat, threatening families and rural communities.

- Cuts safety nets that ensure farms stay afloat, even during financial downturns. (p. 296)
- Guts essential crop insurance that ensures farms can recover after disasters. (p. 296)
- Terminates U.S. sugar production, cutting thousands of jobs and making America reliant on foreign producers. (p. 296)
- Threatens flexible funds used to help stabilize and support agricultural income during tumultuous economic circumstances. (p. 294)
- Endangers the reliability of future funding for farmers as well as vital food assistance programs by decoupling nutrition and agriculture programs in the farm bill. (p. 298)
- Eliminates farmers' flexibility to maximize the productivity of their land, which they know best. (p. 304)
- Denies farmers access to science-based landscape consultation services used to help cut costs and minimize their impact on the environment. (p. 304)
- Ends marketing orders and checkoff programs, throwing agricultural markets into chaos. (p. 306)
- Shrinks American farmers' access to foreign markets, restricting growth opportunities for producers. (p. 307)
- Restructures the farm bill process to line the pockets of Big Ag. (p. 297)
- Constricts the Farm Service Agency and hamstring small and family farmers by curbing access foundational operating loans. (p. 310)
